This project is planned to develop a residential area at the location with rich nature about five kilometers northeast from the central Fuzhou City. A subway development plan has been also promoted in this site, which will increase the accessibility of the site to the town dramatically. We made a plan for this mountainous site with the concept of "a town with an easy access to the city while people can relax and escape from crowds and noises of the big city" and "a town with rich nature developed by utilizing its characteristic topography" .
