The planned location of BaBe national park with a valuable natural environment. is one of the northern 11 national parks. The park is a wetland designated by the Ramsar Convention with two Asian Heritage Park protection areas. To encourage eco-tourism capitalizing on the attractions of each area, land use was planned by laying out the utilization basis such as cores or satellites in a distributed way according to zones and resources. Prioritizing the easing of environmental load, the development of roads in the national park was avoided as much as possible. Instead, utilization of public transportation systems are aimed to be maximized.
